STUDENTS EMBARK ON CAMPING TRIP

Cameron Head Start Pre-K Camping Adventure recently embarked on a “camping” trip that saw the children make a tent and fire put out of blocks and tissue paper including cotton balls on the end of real sticks the children collected to act as marshmallows to roast. A fishing pond was fashioned from a plastic tote, blue tissue paper and fish. The children could use the fishing poles, made with twigs, string, and magnets, to catch a fish. The fish had numbers written on them and the other fish that matched had the number of dots. Books about camping were read aloud. The students made their own binoculars out of toilet paper rolls. Taking part in the camp out are, from left, Steven Frazier and Gracie Fykes, who are fishing; below right Aidan Dishman, Steven Frazier and Aaliyah McDonald, having a cookout.
